

Criminological Information Service

University of Tübingen, Germany

1) About the FID Criminology

The Criminological Information Service (Fachinformationsdienst Kriminologie, FID) is mainly focused on the task to provide the scientific community with literature and other subject-relevant information on criminology as comprehensively as possible.

Currently, around

- 125,000 monographs
- 240 active journal subscriptions
- 320 digital documents in DigiKrimDoc as well as
- 1,500 digital documents in the criminological repository

are part of the FID.

2) The most important research tool for the literature inventory as well as for bibliographical references, is the KrimDok database.

In this database are currently (status: July 2021) about 265,600 references.

If you would like to browse through the references, which are to a large part in English language, please turn to: KrimDok \(uni-tuebingen.de\)

Or you may try at first, just as an example: "Youth gangs " with 2,540 hits

Search Results - youth gangs \(uni-tuebingen.de\)

In case you are missing any literature, feel free to visit the acquisition profile of the FID Criminology in order to place an acquisition request.
