

Office for National Statistics (England)

ONS would like to invite you to attend their first Annual Crime and Justice Forum event, taking place on 23 February 2022.

The forum will provide users of Crime and Justice data an opportunity to hear from key data suppliers on how they have continued to measure crime during the pandemic.

The event will also be a space for discussion and an opportunity to engage with experts in Crime and Justice statistics, share insights into transformation and create a community to foster future collaboration.

The online event will consist of a panel discussion in the morning where data suppliers will provide updates to users and engage in a Q&A session on measuring crime and justice during the pandemic.

The afternoon part of the forum will consist of several workshops. These will focus on specific topics within Crime and Justice data and feature presentations from topic experts in specific fields.

Full agenda to be circulated closer to event.

We hope you can join us for what we anticipate being a fantastic event.

Please be aware that once your registration is confirmed, we will forward a link onto you to access the webinar 24 hours before the event.
