How is Human Trafficking Regulated in the UK? A Critical Examination of the UK's Anti-Trafficking Response.

Speaker: Dr Konstantinos Kosmas Gaitis, University of Edinburgh

Date: Friday 24 May, 12-1pm, Online

Register: <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/how-is-human-trafficking-regulated-in-the-uk-tickets-875816309157?aff=oddtcreator>

Abstract:

This seminar will present the key points of my policy briefing published by SCCJR under the Scottish Justice Fellowship scheme. This briefing was based on my doctoral thesis of the same name undertaken at the School of Law of the University of Edinburgh between 2017 and 2021. Focusing on adult victims, my research examined the anti-trafficking regulatory framework across the UK and the operation of the mechanism used in Britain to deal with human trafficking/modern slavery cases and provide support to victims, namely the National Referral Mechanism (NRM). For this, I analysed policies issued by the UK, Scottish and Northern Irish governments, conducted interviews with practitioners in England and Scotland, and a case study with a domestic sex trafficking victim in England.

What can be said about the support framework and effectiveness of the NRM? What is the influence of professional backgrounds on stakeholders' trafficking viewings? What are the key representations and stereotypes promoted in reserved and devolved policy discourse around human trafficking? And more broadly, how is human trafficking regulated in Britain in the backdrop of devolution and what is the relationship between anti-trafficking efforts and immigration restrictions?

International Workshop on Prison Officers and their Work

I am pleased to invite you to a free workshop around, but going beyond our recently published book, Prison Officers: International Perspectives on Prison Officer Work

July 8th and 9th, Edinburgh Napier University (the days before the BSC conference in Glasgow on July 10-12th)

This workshop emerges out of a collaboration initiated in 2020 that has focused on writing and editing a new edited collection Prison Officers: International Perspectives on Prison Officer Work. Providing an expansive exposition of the everchanging realities of prison officer work, the book provides an international overview of the prison officer role through accessible scholarly interpretations of their work. The collection starts to advance knowledge and understanding of the crucial role prison officers undertake within carceral systems.

The question then emerges where does research and knowledge exchange activities go next?

This workshop will respond to this question by providing an opportunity for researchers, prison practitioners and policy makers to work together to consider what comes next in terms of both research relating to prison officers, as well as how research can be translated into improvements in policy and practice including prison officer training, recruitment and retention. The workshop is not a formal conference as much as an opportunity for researchers, practitioners, and policymakers with an interest in prison officers and their work, to discuss and shape future of research in this area. Each day of the workshop will include participants presenting their pre-circulated work, followed by a discussion of emerging ideas and findings.

More details as well as information to sign up for this workshop can be found at the link below: International Workshop on Prison Officers and their Work

Submission Guidelines

All abstracts must be submitted by email. Detailed information can be found on the official ACS website. In the email, you will be asked to indicate the type of submission you wish to make. Submission options for the conference include : (1) Complete Thematic Panel -- (2) Individual paper presentations.

You will receive a confirmation email after you submit. If not, please email 15thacs2024ph@gmail.com.

Please note that late submissions will NOT be accepted. In addition, submissions that do not conform to the guidelines will be rejected. We encourage participants to submit well in advance of the deadline so that ACS staff may help with any submission problems while the call for papers remains open. Please note that ACS staff members respond to inquiries during normal business hours.

Abstract: A typical abstract will summarize the main aspects of your research in a 100-to-200-word paragraph, including: 1) the purpose of the study and the research problem(s) you investigate; 2) the design of the study; 3) major findings of your analysis; and 4) a brief summary of your interpretations and conclusions. Although not all abstracts will conform to this format, they should all contain enough information to frame the problem and orient the conclusions.

Complete Thematic Panels: Panel submissions must include the title and abstract of the entire group, as well as title, abstract, and author information for all papers. Each panel should contain three to four papers and a discussant. Group and individual abstracts should be between 100 and 200 words. Organizers are encouraged to submit an overall summary of the group together, and an abstract for each group member.

Individual Paper Submissions: Individual Paper Submissions: Submissions for a regular panel session presentation must include a title, abstract, and author information. Please note that these presentations are intended for individuals to discuss work that is close to completion or where substantial progress has been made. Presentations about work that has yet to begin or is only in the formative stage are not appropriate here and may be more suitable for Roundtable Discussion.

Other Information: All program participants are expected to register for the meeting. We encourage everyone to pre-register before May 15 to avoid paying a higher registration fee.

Additional Information: We have four incredible plenary sessions confirmed, August 10, 2024.

- 1. Message – Prof. Jianhong Liu, Founder of the Asian Criminological Society & Chairman of General Assembly.
- 2. Message –Prof. Thilagaraj, ACS President of Executive Board.

Dynamics of Hate: Examining Interdisciplinary Perspectives

International Network for Hate Studies Biennial Conference: Call for Papers

25-27 November 2024

Co-hosted by the University of South Africa and the Psychological Society of South Africa

The International Network for Hate Studies (INHS) is delighted to announce its plans and put a call out for papers for our fifth conference “Dynamics of Hate: Examining Interdisciplinary Perspectives”. Co-hosted by the University of South Africa (Unisa) and the Psychological Society of South Africa (PsySSA), this will be the first INHS conference to be held in the Southern Hemisphere, in Cape Town, South Africa, from 25th to 27th November 2024 at Century City Conference Centre (www.ccconferencecentre.co.za). We look forward to engaging with colleagues and friends for our first in-person conference since 2018.

The dynamics of hate and hostility are tragically ever-present as we reach a quarter of our way through the 21st century. Hate occurs in many guises that limit the capacity of individuals and communities to engage in society. Through interdisciplinary communication, working and research it is possible to develop, enhance and build challenges to hate and hostility as well as support those victimised and marginalised because of its vagaries. This conference provides an opportunity for academics, policy makers, practitioners, and activists to come together to share their knowledge and expertise within the area of hate studies and as such inform change.

Key Dates

Abstract submission opens - 25 March 2024

Call for abstracts closes - 31 May 2024

Conference Registration Opens - 08 April 2024

Notification to authors – (no later than) 1 month of receipt of abstract

Abstract Submission Process

Abstracts from any area of hate studies are welcome, but the themes below may be considered:

- Hate crime and hate speech
- Legislating against hate crime: law, policy, interpretation
- Extremism and counter-extremism
- Protection of and assistance to hate crime victims
- Hate crime specialisation – police, prosecution, civil society....
- Evidence: proving hate
- Data gaps: local, national, and international
- Teaching “hate” at universities
- Hate crime victims: evidencing impact
- Thin line between institutional and individual discrimination and prejudice
- Critical approaches to hate studies

Abstracts can be submitted for any of the following:

- Paper (a paper presented in 15-20 minutes that will be allocated to a Panel/Symposium dictated by the conference theme and core issues in Hate Studies)
- Panel/Symposium (a set of 3-4 papers presented in 15–20-minute slots followed by 30 minutes discussion)
- Discussion Panel (a set of 5 individual papers presenting 5 slides in 5-minute slots, followed by an hour of discussion)
- Roundtable (a discussion session with no formal presentation of papers)
- Poster Presentation (posters are displayed throughout the conference and authors are available at a set time to discuss their work).

Abstracts for papers should be submitted here:

A one-day in person symposium

Institutional Care or Control: Past & Present

Monday 16 December 2024, University of Birmingham

Organising committee: Dr Emma Watkins, Dr Tahaney Alghrani, & Dr Buxi Duan.

We are looking for abstracts for individual papers and panels for our symposium.

Theme:

This symposium welcomes proposals for papers and panels concerned with institutional confinement. This may include, but is not limited to, criminal justice institutions (e.g. Reformatories, Houses of Correction and Borstals), workhouses/charitable institutions, and institutions which house(d) those classified as inebriates or as having mental health disorders. Aspects that might be considered; movement in and out of the institution, life and treatment within the institution, experience of those caught up within them, the aims and objectives of those who ran the institutions, and policy change and continuity. Abstract submission on all topics and periods within this broad remit are welcomed.

Who

Academics (at all career stages), practitioners, and/or activists researching or working in the area.

Types of abstracts

Individual paper proposals: please include paper title; name(s) of author(s); institutional affiliation (if applicable); email address (of proposing author); paper abstract of no more than 250 words.

Panel proposals: please include full details (as outlined above) for each constituent paper, in addition to: panel title; name, institutional affiliation (if applicable) and email address of the panel organiser; abstract of the panel's aims (no more than 150 words); name of panel chair (if nominating a specific chair).

Submission

Please send your abstract to me at b.duan@bham.ac.uk by 1 July 2024.

We look forward to meeting you in Birmingham in December!

Best wishes,

Dr Buxi Duan, FHEA (he/him) (Phonetics: Bu-She)
